

3D ENGLISH URBAN NATURE ADVENTURE

An innovative project from the '3D English' team where the discovery of the natural riches and heritage of Paris, an active and dynamic approach to English-learning using creativity and imagination intertwine... We offer activities for groups in the form of one-off workshops, projects and courses with or without accommodation and aimed at all ages and backgrounds: from Paris, the Île de France or elsewhere and from 6-years' up... Supervised by experienced bilingual trainers / native speakers.

EXPLORE, DISCOVER & LEARN

Our activities and workshops provide an opportunity to explore and observe the Capital in a different way. Both to identify the natural richness and diversity in urban areas: the proliferation and resilience of flora and fauna despite increasingly unfavorable conditions, and at the same time, discovering some of the many projects attempting to integrate ecological solutions, but also to address the challenges and problems faced by climate change (pollution, unstable weather phenomena, shortage of resources such as water, etc.)

Let's discover another side of Paris and imagine tomorrow's Capital...

SKILLS & CONFIDENCE IN ENGLISH

Why are we linking the discovery of the Paris through its natural environment and the English language?

To begin with, the questions around environmental issues, to which the younger generations are often more sensitive today, allow for an active and dynamic approach to language learning. Secondly, as climate-linked problems are manifesting themselves on a global scale, observations and the search for solutions involve exchanges between many countries, and are therefore more easily done in English, the universal language. This is the case, for example, of the young environmental activist Greta Thunberg, who, in order to increase her impact on the population, does not only communicate in Swedish, her mother tongue, but very often uses English.

English will allow us to communicate, reflect and find solutions to problems collectively and without borders!

DISCUSS, SHARE & COLLABORATE

This is why we integrate tools into all our workshops to develop communication, collaboration and team cohesion: brainstorming, mind maps, team building, fun challenges, etc. identifying and giving value to each person's individual skills to succeed in a collective project.

IMAGINE, CREATE & ENJOY

Another of our aims: to encourage all members of the group to work with their imagination and with creativity, and to add a pinch of pleasure and aesthetics into the learning process as well as introducing the participants to various skills and techniques: drawing, photography, model-making, creative writing, music & song...
